MONTGOMERY is one of the editors of St Augustine s Confessions in the Cambridge Patristic Series, and this book consists of eight lectures delivered in St John s College, Cambridge, during the Lent Term of 1913. It may be doubted whether all Mr Montgomery s readers will find their way to the Cambridge edition of the great African father, but that that edition, when it appears, will be the Augustine of English-speaking students, and that those, who desire to converse, on the easiest possible terms, with Augustine as if he were a man about town, will find all they want in Mr. Montgomery s Lent Lectures, are propositions that will not be gainsaid by any reader of this truly delightful book. It is the book of a workman and a scholar, but the stains of toil have been removed, and one feels in reading it, much as the pupils of Augustine at Cassiciacum must have felt in their own case, that one is making holiday with a teacher who is not only learned, but wise and good. The eight lectures may be said to be divided between the personality of Augustine and his work. Under the former head we should include his Character and Temperament, his Conversion, and his Correspondence (Lectures I.-III.). Under the latter we think specially of his attainments in science, philosophy, homiletics, and literature, and we should refer to it the other five lectures. The subjects are: his Psychology, his Power of Observation and Description, the Psychologist as Thinker, the Expositor and Preacher, the Philosopher of History, Politics, and Social Ethics. The book reads so easily that it is very possible to forget that...
